Mark Lane's Brief

Editor — As one who was shocked and outraged by the tragic murder of President Kennedy, and as one who joined the national jury that tried, sentenced and killed Lee Oswald without really listening to the evidence . . . I read Congressman Mark Lane's "defense brief" to the Warren Commission with amazement. If Congressman Lane's analysis is correct, Oswald did not and could not have committed that horrible crime. The questions raised by this conclusion are enormous.

The press, so quick to condemn, has a duty to present these conclusions and their reasoning to the public. In the interests of justice, in the interests of America, I pray this will be done.
