

RUBY

MAY 14 1975

NYTimes

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

New Books

GENERAL

Knaves, Fools and Heroes in Europe Between the Wars, by Sir John Wheeler-Bennett (St. Martin's Press, $10).

Life in Capitalist America: Private Profit and Social Decay, edited by Stephanie Coontz and Carl Frank (Pathfinder Press, $10; paperbound, $2.95).

Plodding Toward Terror: A Personal Look at the Jack Ruby Case, by Ralph M. Pabst (Vantage Press, $5.95).

Published in Paris: American and British Writers, Printers and Publishers in Paris, 1920-1939, by Hugh Ford, foreword by Janet Flanner (Macmillan, $14.95).

Soviet Europe, by Donald Shanor (Harper & Row, $10.95). A look at people and leading personalities.

Stop the Presses, I Want to Get Off: Inside Stories of the News Business from the Pages of [MORE], edited with an introduction by Richard Pollak (Random House, $8.95).

The Machiavellian Moment: Florentine Political Thought and the Atlantic Republican Tradition, by J. G. A. Pocock (Princeton University, $22.50; paperbound, $11.50).

The Man Who Gave the Beatles Away, by Allan Williams and William Marshall (Macmillan, $9.95). The early years of the singing group.

The Privilege of His Company: Noël Coward Remembered, by William Marchant (Bobbs-Merrill, $10).

The Sea Shell Islands: A History of Sanibel and Captiva, by Elinore M. Dormer, illustrated by Ann Winterbotham (Vantage Press, $5.95).

The Untamed God, by G. R. S. Mead (Cornell University Press, $10.95). An appraisal of traditional beliefs.

Thomas Carlyle
(Scribner's)
A critical study of his work.
To be published