FBI Linked to Editor

Nashville

The publisher of the Tennessean newspaper announced yesterday that a copy editor has been "separated" from the paper because of her alleged connections with the FBI.

In a statement, Tennessean Publisher John Seigenthaler said Mrs. Jacque Srouji, 31, had discussed with him information relating to "her past and recent communications with the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

"The most important factor in my decision to separate Mrs. Srouji from the newspaper was that it appeared to me as a result of her conversations the rights and interests of at least two other members of our newspaper's staff were involved.

A National Public Radio report said yesterday that congressional sources claimed Srouji was dismissed because she admitted funneling information about writers and reporters on the paper b the FBI.

The action follows testimony given by the woman before the House Energy and Environment Subcommittee April Rclaiming she had been given access to 1000 pages of FBI documents in the cortroversial death of Oklahoma plutoniun worker Karen Silkwood*The material previously had been denied to the Hoise subcommittee.

The House panel is investigating the thooughness of an FBI probe of Silkword's death in a 1974 auto crash. The cash occurred while she was en route to dscuss her allegations about health and afety violations at the Kerr-McGee Juclear Corp. plutonium facility in rescent, Okla.

Srouji refused to name the FBI surce who gave her access to the file. ut subcommittee chairman Representa-ve John Dingall (Dem-Mich.) said that BI agent Larry Olsen testified under pressure that "There's a special relationship between Srouji and the bureau.'

The FBI has denied that Srouji is an agent, but has refused to comment whether she had a "special relationship" with the bureau.

Mrs. Srouji has recently finished a book concerning the Silkwood incident, based partially on the FBI documents.

She had worked for the Tennesseean since September 1975.

Seigenthaler said he had "conveyed the information she gave me to representatives of the Justice Department, the FBI and interested congressional com-

"I anticipate that appropriate investigations will follow," he said.

"If the information given to me by her is credible — and I believe that it is then it is my judgment that the FBI has pursued an extremely unwise course of conduct in the past.

"Mrs. Srouji has been a competent staff member and the situation that has led to this conclusion is both unfortunate and regrettable.
