

TIME TO ATTEND CHURCH

A Day of Mourning

We can think of no better way to honor President Kennedy than to follow the suggestion of our new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, and attend places of worship today, on this, a national day of mourning.

Since the death of Mr. Kennedy, the nation has mourned — individually, in families, in groups, but yet with the thread of national unity throughout.

Today will be the time for citizens, young and old, to go to their churches and there, as President Johnson has suggested, "to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay their homage of love and reverence to the memory of a great and good man."

With no school, only essential business and industry, there will be ample time to make this respectful gesture.

In union there is strength, and strength is what the country needs now.
