6/11--Today's Post carries what the LA Times might, a story on the govt's legal memo in the Ellsberg/Russo case alleging prejudice vs the govt by the media, a list of proscriptions, ?s of the jury, exclusion of readers of NYTimes, Post, etc. It brackets incredibly with what I have just drafted on the govt use of the press vs Garrison in the pinball case. I'll be asking DJ press office for a copy when I'm in DC Tuesday, but if there is anything in the Times or a major story in any other paper, I'd appreciate. Temporarily I'll be keeping this with the XX work, should you want a copy...The treatment of McGovern's visit to Wallace is incredible. Had I not twice seen the actuality on TV, from the net news coverage and today's Post I'd believe that McGovern said he could accept Wallace in his cabinet. He did not. He said the opposite, as clearly as possible without insult. He also said that he had no way of knowing what Wallace's attitude would be to the offer of a post in his administration and that any such question was premature. What he did say is that Wallace represents many people and there might be a post in the administration where his skills could be used. No more. Best, HW
