

3/22- In the event you agree with me, that by any current standard, in the context of the Anderson disclosures anything on ITT and spying or CIA ought be news, let me list what I can recall of those to whose attention I called the fact beginning with Anderson, from whom I've not heard (and didn't expect to) I told a friend on the London Times and another with CBS in NYC this afternoon, so there is the ever so slight chance either may use it.

Wash Post (where the morgue was checked and sure enough the clips were there-and I was wrong of Czecho, for it was Hungary -and the National Editor confirmed this today)

I think there were more, but I'm tired.

A friend at the Post told me it seems that the entire press has quit the story except for printing what happens. Not one is looking for an angle-or a story

A friend at the London Times says Anderson's office was a madhouse when she went there to get what he gave away, and it seems to be one helluva story that will linger in every underdeveloped country for years. It is one of the best CIA storys yet. She doesn't see how they get the column done, leave alone other things.

It would seem we have to change the hackneyed phrase of our youths. It is not that money talks. It is that money sees to it there is no talk.

ITT couldn't have picked a better time to sponsor China so heavily on TV, could they?

The Post did make this one departure. They called the former, part-time secretary in Canada and it turns out that what she really says and remembers is not at all what ITT says, and this includes clear recollections of Mitchell and destroy.

I think in each case I suggested what should have been the obvious and haven't checked myself, the contributors to the illegality that made Nixon vice president, the famous Checkers fund.

Meanwhile, quietly, there has been another indictment of prominent Democrats, this time of International Latex. And the federal Chicago grand jury has started already-first day-heard of Chicago station tonight. All's well! H
