

The Barber clip, review, very interesting. He saw pretty clearly. The disagreement I feel but can't prove is ego. He says Nixon has much. I think it appears that way but is the opposite, that he always has to be proving himself to himself, has to be forever telling himself that he really is somebody. Not that I know. I used to think his ego ate him up. Despite his positiveness and his positive acts, like bombing, I also feel that he is a very unsure man because he does know that he really is a nothing. I think I once addressed this in commenting on his plagiarisms and his expressions when he uses and misuses them. Thanks. HW 11/28/73
