

JDW: I'm pushing so hard I'm getting more forgetful. I've been at it several hours and day is not yet breaking. But I find these early hours the most productive, even when I'm tired. They are not interrupted. I've just reorganized the second section of the add to Post Mortem. While doing it I decided to include some of the new material not related to the autopsy. Two things I've forgotten ~~are~~ to tell that that as of 8/16 our route number is changing to 12 instead of 8/ and to ask your opinion of a new subtitle from Post Mortem: JFK Assassination Secrets. While most of it is on the autopsy and relates, I'll be adding much more in ballistics, some of which is in earlier parts. I also have more on the framing of the Kennedys. More of FOIA, judges, DJ, FBI, CIA. (I hope you don't find the brief mention of Nosenko a wrench. I use it in illustrating how nuts in doing Dept. Disinfo jobs do not do what they could and how this helps the agencies. Of course the essence of the Nosenko story is vital in understanding the deliberateness of the official faking and the suppressions this required.

Rt 8 mail will be forwarded but slowed down a bit.

Today's interruptions begin with taking Lil's typewriter back in for repair first thing. Some day we'll be able to afford one of those IBMs with interchangeable faces and I'll inherit her Royal electric. But that will also require a smaller desk to make room for it. Lil stayed up last night to finish retyping the first part of the add. HW 8/11/75
