

Long silence from combination of another accident, in snow, and time required to package and mail a gratifying number of orders from the mailing. The number of those who've moved is fantastic-20% to date - and the volume of orders to now is enough to pay all the costs of the mailing, including flyers half of which we still have, postage, envelopes and the books themselves. From now on it is all a plus. One of the interesting things is the encouraging proportion of orders it has brought for Frame-Up, which has always been the ~~best~~ worst seller. Of course, some orders for earlier works, too. Yesterday half of all the orders included earlier ones. In fact, the increased income from the earlier books ~~has~~ enabled Lil to accumulate enough to get a floor laid in the living room which, believe it or not, with those who built this house worth a quarter of a million, never had a finished floor. Only a rug over subfloor and the rug was work out when we moved in! HW 1/10/75
