

JDW- To illustrate value of clips: last batch, heretoday, included coverage HSCA report. Because I was trying to clean up acculubation of mail from intense period and clear snow from lane I did not get to look at them until after supper. Meanwhile, I had a call from Canada, a friend who produces for CBC's equivalent of 60 Minutes. Among the questions, what did I think of Dodd's belief of three shooters? I'd not heard of it because the UPI story you sent was not printed and not aired hereabouts. So I did not know Dodd's belief and this friend had heard only rumor - until I read clips. There is the same with Jonestown. Almost none covered in Post or on radio. So thanks. ...We had season's first snow, close to serious one. Not close by 100 miles either side. I enjoyed shovelling but decided to use some Nat. Enquirer largess for a motor-driven blower- and it works. Neighbor sales manager for local International Harvester dealer, delivered his last assembled and working. I told Lil we'll now have no snow after this one, which is to repeat tonight and then be followed by rain, which is what kept me chipping ice through March. As I learned about the blower today, slush jams it! You don't have snow but I'm sure you remember it and how much it can cover how deeply how fast!...Too bad Lardner is sick of the committee and the story because his reporting has become quite good. Post's policy unchanged, though.
